Consolidated Technology Services (CTS) was created October 1, 2011 to replace the abolished Department of Information Services (DIS) pursuant to ESSB 5931, now codified in RCW 43.105. CTS' (formally DIS') telecommunication department applies for significant 'E-rate' discounts on behalf of the eligible sites for whom they procure telecommunications services. The E-Rate Program - more precisely, the Schools and Libraries Universal Service Support Mechanism - provides discounts to assist most schools and libraries in the United States to obtain affordable telecommunications and Internet access. The E-rate program enables eligible customers (K-12 schools and libraries) to seek reimbursement for up to 90% of e-rate eligible services from the federal Universal Service Fund.

Support of the Smarter Balanced assessment project calls for translation of assessments to aid students where English is a second learned language (ELLs). To set the foundation for appropriate designs and approaches to conducting the translations, Smarter Balanced needs a translation framework that can be included in the eventual procurement activity for translation services.

The framework will include:

- A set of theoretical and conceptual foundations for mathematics assessment translation.
- A set of criteria that should be considered in defining ELL populations and populations users of SEE/ASL and in deciding the appropriateness of assessing these populations in English or in the translated language.
- A model for test translation and test translation review.
- A discussion of issues critical to the successful completion of the Smarter Balanced assessment translation endeavor.

Documentarian for WSAC Innovations grant projects funded by the Wallace Foundation. The arts program documentarian will create a "case study" analysis of 13 Arts Participation Innovations grants that are supported by the Wallace Foundation and the Washington State Arts Commission. The grants are provided with the goal of stimulating innovative practices in arts participation.

Key questions to be addressed in the case study include the following:

- Arts participation: Can innovative and compelling projects overcome the challenges of generating robust participation in the arts?
- Innovations: What helps arts organizations to be innovative? Can a short-term project move an arts organization toward adopting innovative practices? What combination of mission, capacity, and opportunity contribute to innovative practices?
- Documentation: How can we measure impact or success with a short-term innovation?
- Support: What role can, or should, funders play in supporting innovative practices?

Note: The RFP is included under Attachments.

Olympic College requires an emergency contract approval because our credit card system has been compromised at least at our main campus and we have hired a cyber security company to establish an understanding of the extent of the compromise as required by VISA, Mastercard, American Express, Discover and JCB. So far we have had over 40 compromised cards from both students and college employees. This is a threat to material loss if immediate action is not taken. The college may lose the ability to accept any credit or debit cards from the four major companies if we do not show due diligence in PCI compliance and determine the nature of the breach and take specific actions to prevent this from happening again.
