This contract is to support hiring a contractor to coordinate the 2008-2009 Washington State "Poetry Out Loud"(POL) program, which is supported entirely by federal funds through the National Endowment of the Arts (NEA). This NEA funding is restricted and may be used only for POL; this federal funding will be lost if we do not use it to produce a state level POL program. POL is a poetry recitation contest for high school students; its structure is similar to the national spelling bee competition, with competitions in individual schools and regions as well as a statewide final and a national competition. POL encourages participation in the arts and enhances student achievement. The program is now in its fourth year as a national event, and is run in partnership with every state arts agency in the nation. It has been featured in national media (NPR, Time Magazine, etc.) and has produced outstanding educational benefits for both students and teachers in our state. A POL coordinator is necessary to run this program efficiently and effectively, and in compliance with federal requirements. During the eight month duration of this program, the NEA guidelines require extensive ongoing communication with schools, teachers, and regional partners, managing and tracking participation from all program participants, providing trainings, and producing regional and state level workshops and events. The POL coordinator will manage these responsibilities, and will report to the Arts in Education Program Manager. The WSAC Executive Director supports our agency's role in POL as well as the necessity of this contract.

This contract is for expert research services associated with our "Arts Education Research Initiative" (AERI), a statewide study of arts education practices at K-12 schools in Washington State. The contractor will design and disseminate a survey to K-12 principals across the state; collect, manage, and analyze survey data; and produce a data report with survey findings disaggregated by areas of research interest. The AERI project is an essential function for this agency and contributes to our ability to support and develop K-12 arts education partnerships. One of our key goals in our recently completed strategic plan (for 2009-2011) is to "support high quality and effective arts education programs for all K-12 students across the state;" this research project is necessary to enable us to make informed decisions and direct resources pertaining to K-12 arts education. We began the AERI project in 2004; a baseline report was released in January 2006; the 2008-2009 project is a planned follow-up study to assess change and to delve deeper into key areas of interest. This research is needed not only for our agency, but also for other agencies, schools, and arts organizations across the state – no one else is gathering this data. To maximize the effectiveness of this project, we are working with several key stakeholder agencies and organizations, including the Office of the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Association of Washington State Principals, and ArtsEd Washington. The published results of this research will help decision makers across the state understand successes and challenges in how K-12 schools are delivering arts instruction. The WSAC Executive Director supports our continuing work on the AERI, as well as the necessity of this contract.
