The purpose of L&I Contract K2272 is to hire a consultant to conduct a research project to study occupational disease claims in Washington's workers' compensation system, per legislation passed in 2011. L&I has conducted a Request for Proposal (RFP) to find the best qualified contractor. The study shall include, but not be limited to, an examination of the frequency and severity of occupational disease claims for state fund and self-insured employers; the impact of these claims on long-term disability and pension trends; the statutory definition of occupational disease and its interpretation and comparison to definitions in other states and jurisdictions; and comparison of the statute of limitations for filing occupational disease claims for Washington and other states and jurisdictions. The study must be submitted to the appropriate committees of the legislature by December 1, 2012.

The scope of the original contract was to have a facilitated process of exam item review and upgrading for the state surveyor's licensing examination. This amendment proposes to extend part of the defined deliverables of the original contract and to have the contractor provide statistical analysis of each exam item performance through and including the October 2013 administration. This analysis is done for each examination and each test item in the examination to ensure the performance results are consistent and reliable for use in the eventual transition to a computer-based testing format, and that the examination is reliable and legally defensible.

The specific need for this contract is to maintain an effective communication tool to reach various audiences including dairy producers, consumers, media, teachers, retailers, school food service personnel, health professionals, and many more.

This tool is needed in order to provide quick and consistent information to dairy producers on a regular basis, but especially in case of a herd health crisis situation. (i.e. BSE or Foot in Mouth disease)

Consumers and other audiences regularly are seeking up-to-date information on the dairy industry, dairy products, programs/events, education materials and promotions. Consumer-related industry activities are posted for public access. Utilizing the internet is an efficient and effective way to reach our audiences.

Providing accurate and up-to-date information preserves and enhances the image of dairy products and farmers in Washington State.

Programs and resources provided are continually growing and being updated. The website/s provide a place to share and update these programs and resources along with related activities.

To correct Amendment 18, incorporate four (4) approved Change Requests (8073, 8343, 9912 and 10555), change Exhibit 3 and increase overall funding by $49,582. This is a major agency information technology system that will replace the current Unemployment Insurance Tax System and the 13 ancillary systems that have been built to support the unemployment insurance tax activities. This amendment is a cost related to an information technology contract related to an Information Services Board approved information technology project
